AHK-Cu (topical)
QUICK GUIDE

Topical form: does it get in? ♥

WHAT IS AHK-CU (TOPICAL)?

AHK-Cu (topical) is the catalog's topical version of AHK-Cu. Copper tripeptide (Ala-His-Lys-Cu) marketed for hair and skin. Supporting studies weren't verified this wave.

Strongest evidence: N/E · Not enough evidence

HOW IT'S TAKEN

Raw powder mixed into a serum: 300 mg per 30 mL serum base (10 mg/mL)

1 application = a thin layer of serum

Copper tripeptide (Ala-His-Lys-Cu) marketed for hair and skin

N/E · Not enough evidence

DOSING PROTOCOL

Catalog: 2 applications (grade E)

WEEK	DOSE (Apply as a serum after cleansing, before moisturizer)
Week 1 onward	2 application

POTENTIAL BENEFITS

- Route evidence: Copper tripeptide (Ala-His-Lys-Cu) marketed for hair and skin. Supporting studies weren'...
  N/E · Not enough evidence

POTENTIAL SIDE EFFECTS

- See the molecule's own sheet

The catalog index links "ahk-cu-raw", which redirects to "ahk-cu-raw-topical".

Everything on the molecule's own sheet

Topical use

Store as the label directs.

Evidence grade N/E: Not enough evidence

For educational use only.

PEPPERSDVO